Network Membership Benefits and Fees

Effective January 1, 2011, to be more sustainable and to serve our members better, the Canadian Sustainability Indicators Network (CSIN) introduced membership fees on an annual tiered basis.

CSIN membership fees were introduced to:

- Improve the standard of quality for the network
- Better manage increased growth and member queries
- Ensure the sustainability of the Network with core membership funding
- Leverage funding by showing current and potential funders that CSIN members value the network by supporting it themselves

The new CSIN membership fee structure is as follows:

Membership levels	Criteria	Membership fees (per year)
Student	Currently enrolled full time in a post-secondary institution	$ 35.00
Individual		$ 75.00
Organization	Can designate up to five individuals who will each, in turn, receive the individual CSIN members' benefits	$250.00

All CSIN members, regardless of membership level, will receive:

- The new monthly CSIN News (which replaces Listserv Mailings)
- Advance notice of, and free participation in, upcoming CSIN Learning Events
- Discounted registration fees for upcoming CSIN conferences and events
